DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I claims 1-16 and 30-33 in Paper No. 3 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that Group II, the method of repairing a heart valve, includes all of the structural limitations of the device claimed in Group I. This is not found persuasive because the method claims of Group II contain additional steps not present in the product claims which are classifiable in other classes.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 17-29 and 34-36 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected invention, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in Paper No. 3.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

- (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
- 4. Claims 1-3,9-13,15,16, and 30-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Myers US PN 5,716,397.

Myers discloses in figures 4 and 6F and line 46 of col. 2 through line 26 of col. 4 annuloplasty devices comprising a fabric sheath having position indicating markings such as colored suture and a radiopaque arcuate stiffening wire disposed within the sheath having a thickness less than 2.5 mm and eyelets disposed at the ends. Figure 4 shows a stiffening element generally saddle shaped in a Z-plane and arcuate in X and Y planes. Furthermore, claims 2-3 recite intended use limitations, which do not structurally limit the annuloplasty band.

5. Claims 1-4,7,9-13,15,16, and 30-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wright et al. US PN 5,306,296.

Wright et al. discloses in figures 2 and line 48 of col. 13 through line 66 of col. 14 annuloplasty devices comprising a fabric sheath having position indicating markings such as colored suture and a radiopaque arcuate stiffening wire disposed within the sheath having a thickness less than 2.5 mm and ends bent back on itself to form eyelets. Figure 4B shows a stiffening element generally saddle shaped in a Z-plane and arcuate in X and Y planes. Furthermore, claims 2-3 recite intended use limitations, which do not structurally limit the invention.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
  - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 5, 6, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wright et al. US PN 5,306,296 as applied to claims 1,4,7 in the 102(b) rejection above, and further in view of Carpentier et al. US PN 5,061,277.

Wright et al. discloses an annuloplasty device meeting the structural limitations of claims 5, 6, and 8 as described above, but lacks the express disclosure of the stiffening element having the three particular radii of curvature and a silicon overmold. Carpentier et al. teaches in figures 1 and 3, lines 9-16 of col. 3, and line 57 of col. 3 through line 7 of col. 4 an annuloplasty device having a sheath and stiffening ring wherein the stiffening ring has the three particular radii of curvature (of claim 8) to properly fit the shape of the natural mitral valve, and furthermore adds a silicone overmold to make the band soft and compressible as well as more resilient.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified the annuloplasty sheath and stiffening element disclosed by Wright et al. by using the particular shape and overmold taught by Carpentier et al. in order to properly fit the shape of the natural mitral valve and make the band soft and compressible as well as more resilient.

8. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wright et al. US PN 5,306,296 or Myers US PN 5,716,397 as applied to claim 1 in the 102(b) rejections above, and further in view of Loch et al. US PN 6,174,332.

Wright et al. or Myers discloses an annuloplasty device meeting the structural limitations of claim 14 as described above, but lacks the express disclosure of the sheath being formed of biological tissue. Loch et al. teaches in lines 44-57 of col. 3 an annuloplasty ring having a sheath made of biological tissue to provide sufficient biocompatibility.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have modified the annuloplasty sheath disclosed by Wright et al. or

Myers by using biological tissue as taught by Loch et al. in order to provide sufficient biocompatibility.
